McKINLEY AND WILSON ABROAD.
 In 1890 William McKinley was burned in effigy in the English manufacturing city of Sheffield, but in 1894 William L. Wilson was welcomed and dined in London because he is the author of a free trade tariff bill. These are significant facts.

The Only Issue.

Republican laws stood the test of thirty years, during which time the country achieved its greatness in an industrial way. It was not until the business interests of the country realized that a Democratic Congress, pledged to repeal these Republican laws, had been elected, that the period of uncertainty, bank panics, business failures, followed by depression, money stringency, wage reductions and idleness began. That is the history of the past two years following the year of the climax of prosperity which immediately followed the passage of the McKinley bill.

Every voter knows it. During the months of the greatest depression every man realized it with terrible force. Business is now adjusting itself to the "lower basis," which means lower wages, the Democratic Congress provided, and, incidentally, there has been a slight spurt of improvement, which the commercial reports say is not permanent. But the Democratic press and politicians are attempting to make the workingmen believe what they know is not true, that they are receiving better wages and more steady employment. The better pay is not coming, the steady employment is not here.

In the meantime, every Democratic convention in this state, and in nearly every other state in the Union, has declared that the fight for a lower basis has only begun, that a tariff for protection is unconstitutional, and that the mission of Democracy will be to continue the agitation until protection is wiped out. This means more uncertainty and the necessity for another readjustment of business to a still lower basis.

The INTELLIGENCER does not believe that the workingmen and business men of West Virginia are going to vote the way they did in 1892. A Democratic Congress again will mean further attempts to pass the Wilson free trade bill and, in consequence, further business disturbances, with their attendant evils.

If the voters of this district are in favor of calling a halt on the destructive policy the Democratic party is pledged to, let them vote for Captain Doremus for congress and the Republican candidates for the legislature. If they are in favor of continued agitation in congress for free trade, then they should vote for John A. Howard for congress and the Camden candidates for the legislature. The lines between what the respective candidates represent are distinctly drawn, and each voter is free to choose for himself. Party prejudice will be laid aside and self-interest and the interests of home and country will dictate how he shall vote.

The Two Records.

HARRISON took the treasury with a $96,000,000 surplus, and left it with a deficit. —Register.
 This is a favorite assertion of the Register, but it does not fairly state the matter, because it does not tell the whole truth. President Harrison, instead of hoarding money in the treasury, or placing it in favorite banks, as President Cleveland had done during his first administration, paid off $233,000,000 of the public debt.

During Mr. Cleveland's first term he paid only $143,000,000 of the public debt, refusing to pay any more, keeping the money in pet banks, until forced to pay it out by a resolution of Congress.

Gov. McKinley stated the other day that had Mr. Cleveland paid as much of the public debt during his term as Mr. Harrison did he wouldn't have left as much in the treasury for Harrison's administration by $20,000,000 as Mr. Harrison left for Mr. Cleveland at the beginning of his second term. "Instead," said he, "of paying off any of the national debt, the present administration has been compelled to borrow fifty millions to pay the running expenses of the government and has been forced by reason of the exigencies of the treasury to encroach upon the gold reserve which has never been encroached upon since Senator John Sherman established it, but which has been encroached upon by from forty to forty-eight millions during this administration."

It is a misrepresentation to assert that President Harrison handed over the treasury to Mr. Cleveland with a deficit. The truth is he handed over to his Democratic successor $100,000,000 gold reserve, of which President Cleveland has spent more than $45,000,000, reducing the fund nearly one-half, besides increasing the public debt $50,000,000 by a bond issue. It will be remembered, in this connection, that President Cleveland said in his first inaugural address that it would be a violation of the constitution to touch the gold reserve. Now, under his administration, it is rapidly disappearing.

Regarding the bond issue, there never was any necessity for it under the business-like management of the Republican administration. The Register says:

Harrison's secretary of the treasury was on the point of issuing those bonds himself when Harrison himself stepped in and haughtily announced that he would allow no increase in the public debt under his administration.

In his speech Thursday night, Mr. Elkins referred to this falsehood, so often repeated by Democratic papers, and denounced it as a pure fabrication, without the shadow of a foundation. He spoke as a member of President Harrison's cabinet, he said, and he knew what he was talking about. He unhesitatingly declared that there never had been any intention to issue bonds; that the plates had not been prepared for the purpose, as so often asserted, and that every statement that there was an intention or necessity for a bond issue was false. That Republican administration had $100,000,000 reserve fund, which could have been used, as Mr. Cleveland is now using it, to meet an emergency. This $100,000,000 was handed over intact with the reins of office.

The Register continues to misrepresent the size, quality and enthusiasm of Republican meetings, and to personally abuse Republican leaders and candidates. If the Register will kindly keep up its gait on that line until election day the Republicans will give it a vote of thanks. There are Democrats who have a sense of decency, and who do not countenance such methods. Abuse is not argument, nor does it make votes.

A STORY of every-day affairs and every-day weakness and great-heartedness, is Edgar L. Wakeman's "Barrett Billingsby's Compassion," printed elsewhere in this issue. It reveals unsuspected and heroic possibilities of character in ordinary business life, and, like most of this brilliant author's fiction, is a tale belonging to that noble class through which the world is always bettered.

RANDOM POLITICAL NOTES.

It was only necessary to announce in the newspapers two days in advance that Hon. S. B. Elkins would address the voters of Wheeling Thursday night to assure an enthusiastic meeting of men who are more eager to vote this year than they have ever been before. The result of the announcement was that the crowd was only limited by the utmost capacity of the Opera House. It was a thoroughly representative audience of workmen and business men, and the hearty applause which greeted the remarks of the distinguished speaker attested their sympathy for the cause which he represented. Never was a more attentive audience gathered anywhere. Mr. Elkins afterward remarked that in his entire career he had never faced men on whose countenances such earnest interest was written. Questions of vital interest to them, touching their material welfare, their prosperity and that of their families, were being discussed. Here, in the chief manufacturing city of the state, the effects of tariff tinkering had been felt more than anywhere in West Virginia, excepting, perhaps, the mining regions, and the men who were in the Opera House Thursday evening were impressed with the importance, to each one of them individually, of the present political campaign.

It was a demonstration of the feeling in this community this year. There was no hurrah, no noise. The people are thinking, and thinking hard. The voting on the sixth of November will be intelligent voting, unless all signs fail, and not the result of momentary excitement produced by the anarchistic appeals of demagogues. The Democratic campaigns of the past appealed to the passions of men. Class was arrayed against class—labor against capital. Workingmen were taught that the manufacturers who had invested their fortunes in industries were "protected barons" who were growing richer while the poor were growing poorer. The seeds of anarchy and socialism were sown. Now the people who were misled by these appeals to their prejudices have had their eyes opened. They are taking the sober second thought. Democratic promises have not been fulfilled, and the poor and the rich are growing poorer together. Capital and labor are growing to understand each other. The one realizes that he cannot exist without the other, and deaf ears are turned to the Democratic breeder of discord and passion.

Wages have been reduced for those who are working, many are not working, and the necessities of life, with the exception, perhaps, of clothing, are no cheaper, while cheaper clothing is the product of cheaper labor and the result of a ruined wool-growing industry. These are the not results of two years of Democracy and its tariff policy. All the speeches that Democratic politicians can make from now until election day, and all the arguments that Democratic editors can advance cannot change these facts, and the facts, the conditions existing, account for the feeling among the people. Republicans, therefore, have no cause for discouragement, though they must not expect to win without work, or by remaining home on election day. The Democracy are at work with a desperate situation for their inspiration.

The Democratic campaign in this congressional district has not been running smoothly. Chairman Delaplaine, the manner of whose appointment I do-tailed two or three weeks since, seems not to have given entire satisfaction to the Howard people. Whether they doubted his ability to pull Mr. Howard through, or whether they lost faith in his sincerity for the cause in view of his vigorous opposition to Mr. Howard before the nomination, I am not prepared to say. However, it is a matter of gossip in political circles that Chairman Delaplaine has been divested of his yellow jacket and three-eyed peacock feather, and is now nothing more than a figure head. He will be allowed to look after matters in Ohio county, but Mr. Lee Wolfe, of Clarksburg, will run the campaign in the district at large. I don't very well see how Mr. Howard's chances could have been bettered by this arrangement. Mr. Wolfe may be a better organizer than Mr. Delaplaine, but he is an anti-Camden leader, and has been most bitter in his denunciation of what he calls the senator's treachery to Democratic principles. The Camden people are not pleased with Mr. Wolfe's course, and it is easy to see how Mr. Howard's candidacy may become involved in the unhappy Wilson-Camden factional contest.

Mr. William L. Wilson's hippodrome campaign is not meeting with the success its managers had hoped for. The "spontaneous" ovations Col. McGraw had industriously worked up have not been as significant as it was expected they would be. The crowds have not been large, nor have the welcomes been unusually cordial. The next two weeks will be spent by Mr. Wilson in the coal and lumber districts where the disastrous effects of his policy are being so keenly felt. Along the line of the West Virginia Central railroad he will find silent mills, fireless coke ovens and tonless mines, and he will be introduced to hundreds of idle workmen. He will travel over a railroad that is running at a loss by reason of this prostration of business, due to his policy. He will ask these people to vote for him. They will answer him on the sixth of November. When he reaches the Fairmont coal region, where Democrats, including Senator Camden and ex-Gov. Fleming, own the mines, he will be greeted with the news that since the passage of the new tariff bill the miners and mine laborers have had their wages reduced five cents on the ton, and the pay of the drivers and day laborers has gone down at about the same ratio. This will be another object lesson for Mr. Wilson to theorize on. There are hundreds of voters directly interested and they are awaiting Mr. Wilson's explanation of how it all happened.

In the Third and Fourth districts the trend of events is in favor of the Republicans. The factional troubles in the Fourth district must be fixed up, and the Democracy finds itself in an embarrassing situation. The election of Warren Miller to Congress is conceded by many Democrats. The situation in the Third district is best given by the Charleston Mail, when it says: "The Wheeling Register's Ananias, located in the capital city, is earning his money. He is the most accomplished penny-a-liner fabricator we know of, and the wonder to us is that he has not been promoted before this. For instance, he says in Monday's Register that 'Alderson is safe,' and that the Republican headquarters in this city are close. Those are two gems, and were probably the result of many sleepless vigils. Mr. Alderson is not safe, and no one knows this fact better than Mr. Alderson himself. His report of the condition of the campaign laid here on Sunday, when he sped through and caught up the odd scraps of his caravanserai, was far different from that which the Register Ananias depicts. He told the boys he was having a rocky road to travel this time, and could give forth no beaming glances, such as have been heard of yore, and stirred the boys to renewed efforts. The Democratic campaign in this district is successful only on paper."

The bouncement of United States Marshal Vinson from office, because of the disgraceful manner of his conduct of the Camden campaign, came a little late, but is better late than never. Had he been removed on the first offense perhaps that innocent blood would not have been shed in Wayne county. Vinson's appointment to the marshalship was a costly piece of work for Mr. Camden. Life Gardien will be a decided improvement. He is a man who commands the respect and good will of men of all parties.

HER DUTY TO TELL.

One of the Loveliest of Ladies Writes Our Readers a Letter They Will Never Forget. It is a Grand Letter and Well Worth Reading.

MISS E. BURKE.

We have received this remarkably interesting letter, with the accompanying beautiful portrait from Miss E. Burke, of Anasokar, N. H., and we place them before our readers:

"Soon after graduating from school, I was stricken down with nervous prostration, and no one but God knows what I suffered.

"I was so nervous that the least little thing would cause my heart to flutter and palpitate. I was also troubled with severe headache and dizziness, which unfitted me for any mental work. I tried several highly recommended compounds, but they did me no good.

"At last, I decided to give Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy a trial. What a blessing it has proved to me! I can truly say that I owe my present excellent health to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. We keep it in the house, as it cures a sick headache or neuralgia in every case, and gives immediate relief.

"I am so grateful for the good this wonderful remedy has done me, and in order that other poor sufferers may be pointed to the path of health, I deem it my duty to state what Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has done for me. My faith is so strong in this grand medicine, which has done me so much good, that I urge others to use it and get well. I have recommended it to several, who have tried it and been cured."

Here is the voluntary testimony of a most estimable lady, that she was cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

It is a wonderful tribute to the great value of this medicine in curing disease. There is a large class of people who, while not exactly sick, suffer from extreme nervousness, feel weak and tired, lack their old-time strength and ambition. They do not eat or sleep well, wake mornings tired, with dull-felling head and no inclination to take hold of their work.

To all such we would recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, for it will certainly give strong nerves and vigorous bodies—in fact will make you strong and well.

This medicine is recommended by doctors. It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York City. He has the largest practice in the world, and this grand medical discovery is the result of his vast experience. The great reputation of Dr. Greene is a guarantee that this medicine will cure, and the fact that he can be consulted by anyone at any time free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this wonderful medicine.
